DEEP FALL OF AUTO.

One Hurt in Drop in Canyon.

Machine Maker Plunge of Hundred Feet; Turns Somersaults.

Passengers Held in Seats as Car Turns Over; Then Hurled Out.

Accident Near Pasadena Is Almost Fatal to the Pleasure Party.

PLUNGED in an automobile down a 100-foot embankment on the Eagle Rock road, opposite Pasadena, six passengers almost miraculously escaped death last evening. Only one member of the party was seriously injured; the others got out with hardly a scratch.

S. T. White, a printer, of No. 112 South Avenue 64, suffered a fracture of the right hip. He was taken to the Pasadena Hospital.

Others in the car were C. W. Leach and wife, Garden avenue, over Avenue 64, and two children, Geraldine, 6, and Margaret, 4.

It was Leach's car, and he was driving, with his wife at his side. The White family occupied the rear seat.

The party had left their homes in Highland Park but half an hour before, and just after 4 o'clock were traveling along the Eagle Rock road, between Glendale and Pasadena, on their way to Pasadena.

SWERVES, TIPS, DROPS. In making a short cut over a road that is little used, the auto struck a washed out section, along the brink of a dry canon that descends into the Arroyo Seco. In a jolt the machine went over, tipped over, and started rolling down the embankment.

It turned to the inside, or driver's side, and as it went Mr. Leach and White, who had just got on the opposite side, might have jumped to safety.

But White thought only of his young children, seated beside him, and hung on.

Mrs. Leach was the first to be thrown out. She landed near the brink and was uninjured. Immediately afterward the White children were shot into the air, the little boy alighting in a clump of bushes and the little girl well down the side of the embankment.

AUTO TURNS SOMERSAULTS.

Over once, then over again, the automobile turned, Leach and White still in their seats, the somersaults of the machine coming so rapidly that they were carried along with it.

The three were spilled out, near the bottom of the canon.

Leach was the first to get up, uninjured, save for slight bruises. He found Mrs. White near him, also uninjured, except for a bruise on one arm.

White was seen to be severely hurt and suffering. As the machine went over with him, he evidently was caught across the hips, the bone being broken.

JOY BANDITS BOLD ROBBERS.

Shoot Policeman Three Times and Escape.

Captured in Their Beds After Desperate Fight.

Confess to Plot to Murder Young Detective.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES]

CHICAGO, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dime novels and detective stories were outdone by the experiences of the Chicago police and two West Side boy bandits late last night and this morning.

The boys committed three hold-ups in the morning, shooting at one of their victims, a policeman four times, and a two-mile gauntlet of police, after blinding a policeman with a whip and made a clear getaway.

Within a few hours each of them had been arrested in their beds in distant parts of the city, one of them after a frantic fight in which it took policemen to overpower him, the other in two alleged safe-blowers, with loaded revolvers under their pillows. Before noon they had fled, confessed to a long list of "stickups."

These desperate criminals, one of whom said he would kill a woman if she would not marry him, are both significant-looking, undersized boys of Ernest Halverson, 21 years ago, no address, who served three terms in the Bridewell, two years old. No West Huron street, no employed day

WEALTHY GIRL PICKS LAWYER FOR HUSBAND.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES]

S. LOUIS, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The wealthiest young woman in her own right in this city, a girl who means to marry a for-sight wife or a home-made man. She said this before she was engaged, and this week she will demonstrate her sincerity by marrying a young attorney, of Mary Fullerton and Paul Bakewell, Jr., are to wed on Wednesday afternoon. Bakewell is a young, portly, and the prospects of fame will be united in this love match.

"I do not care to marry a title or wealth," said Miss Fullerton, some time ago, before there was any particular man in the case. "I prefer a husband who is able to rise or who has risen on his own merits."

Whether this statement lent courage to the man or a home-made man, she said, but he appeared upon the scene soon afterward. A few days ago she smashed the camera of a newspaper reporter who was attempting to take a picture of Bakewell, and later she left the courtroom where she had appeared as defendant in a suit for automobile damage.

Miss Fullerton is an enthusiastic motorist, and on more than one occasion has been detained for exceeding the speed limit. She is a charming and talented, as well as positive young woman.

The fiancée is attached to the Pacific fleet. All her officers and men are civilians.

A Vein Discovered to Be of Great Value.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

PORTLAND. May 30.—[Exclusive] Two skeletons supposed to be the remains of pioneer English prospectors, were found in a vein of gold in the Cascade forest region, sixty miles from here.

The skeletons were a shovel, a frying pan and two rock drills.

The finding of these articles near the vein led to the discovery of the presence of a rich vein of gold and silver.

The bones were located by Peter Samson, a hunter and trapper, who came across the vein, and took the entrance to which we were overgrown by brush and small trees. Subsequent examination convinced him of the richness of his find, he returned for aid.

Peter Samson, an assayer, went to the vein with stones, and returned with the specimens. A vein, rich in gold, has been found in the ground.

The lode has a ten foot

and extends three miles.

The gold has been taken possession of by

and will be worked for its full value.

The settlers in the vicinity say that remains are probably those of Englishmen, who were prospecting in that region when the last of the miners left. That the remains have been in a tunnel about fifty years was indicated by the presence of a tree eighteen feet thick, directly over the entrance.

None of the conductors or motor men who struck, the strike leaders say, have made application for their old positions. It is claimed by the labor leaders that by tomorrow there will be a complete strike.

Street car officials, on the other hand, say three-fourths of the cars will be in operation tomorrow morning. There was but little disturbance today.

The authorities announce that there will be a vigorous prosecution of the strikers who engaged in a factional fight at the Ewa plantation.

Twenty-one were arrested.

HONOR DEAD OF THE WAR WITH SPAIN.

Veterans Conduct Services at Central Park in Commemoration of the Fallen Heroes—The National Guard Bodies Participate in the Parade.

BRIEFS but impressive services were held in Central Park yesterday in commemoration of the young heroes who met death in the Philippines or in Cuba in the Spanish-American War. The Spanish War Veterans were in charge of the ceremonies and, while a special salute was fired for the honored dead of this community, the observance was general. C. E. Dixon commanding; Gen. H. G. Otis Camp, No. 34, United Spanish War Veterans; Capt. B. Crumbley commanding; Camp Commander, Adj. of the Philippines; Capt. B. A. Coffman commanding, and the Seventh California Volunteers' Association.

The monument was decorated with numerous floral tributes. Among the tributes were Spanish War Veterans.

"Patriotism is a noble manly emo-tance was justified is fully revealed by the fact that Cuba is now a free and independent republic, enjoying the friendly protection of the United States. An entomology is being inaugurated in the Philippines.

"That our government will carry out its pledge to the letter is not to be doubted. We have not solved the solution of these problems to those in whom we repose the confidence to place in office and particularly to our great and noble commanding general, H. G. Otis, whose wisdom and judgment merit our utmost regard. [Applause.]

"Comrades, you have once more shown that the emblem of strength and honor is the emblem of liberty and ours is indeed the land of the free and the home of the brave. As freedom has been the battle cry in all our national wars, many God grant that it shall ever continue to be our watchword; that our arms may ever be taken up in aid of the weak and down-trodden. That the bond of brotherhood between us is the bond of strength between the nation. It is significant that the first life sacrificed in that war was that of a negro.

"It should ever be the province of the strong to protect the weak and our country has never failed to do so. We should not aid friend any nation or people in distress, with right on their side. We should foster that spirit by our votes and by our service in arms, that we may be a nation of men, half of Cuba. Dewey's naval victory was a great naval victory and the army won, he declared, because its patriotism was greater and broader; for the nation was pitted against loyalty to the State.

"But greatest of all in his opinion is the patriotism of the men who have given their lives to the upholding of the nation in peace. The man who invented the telephone, the telegraph, the cotton gin, the sewing machine and other devices that have laid the foundations for peaceful progress of mankind. Dr. Burdette painted a vivid picture of war and its horrors as he saw it on the battlefield. In part, he said:

"It gave a new birth of hope to Spain herself and revealed the ignorance and iniquity of her people. From that day to the present, the man who invented the telephone, the telegraph,

the cotton gin, the sewing machine and other devices that have laid the foundations for peaceful progress of mankind. Dr. Burdette painted a vivid picture of war and its horrors as he saw it on the battlefield. In part, he said:

"We were burying the dead after the battle of Tupelo, Miss. It wasn't a great battle. But it was fierce as hate, for it brought Joseph A. Moyer and N. B. Forrest in a clash. It seemed to me that nobody was wounded that day. It was as if every man that was hit was killed. The taste of blood was in men's mouths; they saw red, and the fierce lust of murder flamed in their hearts. It didn't seem as though we fought for the flag, for the nation or the State, on either side, but for the sake we hated each other. The cheers of the lines that charged and countercharged were like the snarls of wild beasts.

"It was the day that Johnnie Beard of Mississippi was killed. We were riding side by side, and he said, 'I have my hand on his bridge for a moment, while he unites his caustic from a saddle ring and slung it around his neck.

"Bob," he said, "it's a mighty hot, sultry day, and often I should get hurt so badly I'd fall off my horse. I want the water with me. And then his face went white, and he leaned forward on his horse's neck. And I leaped from my horse and caught him in my arms. That was all. The hot tears in my eyes were scalding with rage and grief as I leaped into my horse again. He killed him on purpose, I have no doubt. I hated the man who fired the shot.

"But the field was as quiet at sunset as a Sunday evening at home. And we were home, and we were safe, and giving them such poor burial as we could. Pity walked beside us, such little time as she might, for we would fight again in the morning.

"Pity, who came upon two Confederate soldiers, lying under a tree. One was an old man, gray-haired and gray-bearded. He was shot through the head. The other was a boy—18 years old. He was lying beside the old man, so close, that when the stinging bullet had pierced his breast, as he fell with the awful fear in his heart, he had reached out and caught the hand of his comrade. He died, and so died with that death clutch stiffening into a rigid, unbreakable hold.

"Pity was as natural in the world as death. Daddy always had protected him. Daddy always responded to his cry for help, from the time he was a tiny boy. So he called to him now. We could hear the two men with their quickened hearts. Howbeit? When we came to look at them I felt willing to give my own life to bring them to each other once more, with the grace, tenderness, and the great tenderness, answering once more the mighty laugh on the bearded face. But I couldn't. Some of us had killed them. I thought of Johnnie Beard. I thought my son was already dead. Surely no man would have killed those boys 'on purpose.' How could they?

"How often changes our viewpoints. I remember then, when I saw those two, my wrath was hot against the soldiers who killed that old man. I was a boy myself, and it didn't matter so much. He could fight. He could take care of himself. But an old man? Gray-haired and gray-bearded. He made me think of my own dear father. I thought any man drew death on such an old man. What a brutal thing to kill him.

"That was more than forty years ago. Now, I have boys of my own. And I have seen the same on those two sleeping soldiers today. My heart breaks over the boy. The old man's life was nearly ended, anyhow. His race was about run. But that boy! How could one see that such a glorious child of the morning? I look at him again. I see the face of a boy who would scream 'Daddy' and clutch at my sensitive neck. I see the face of a boy who would find the bullet that would find his life. And I pray the Christ who died for us all, that there may be no more wars."

The service closed with the congregation singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and the bugles sounding "taps."

THEIR MEMORY REMAINS.

"Such men were those who have gone before us and they have not died in vain. Their memory remains an example to the nation. Their sacrifice will, some day become the defenders of our beloved country. And when the last battle is fought and the last relict remains, may we find those comrades of ours in the ranks of the Great Commander." [Applause.]

At the close, Maj. Weller's impressive address "Rock of Ages" was rendered by the band.

The firing squad, composed of members of the 10th Cavalry, N.C., in command of Capt. Copp, marched in and took position facing the monument. From that position the squad fired three volleys in salute to the dead, after which taps was sounded.

CRIMSON MEMORY.

FLOATING POEM IS OLD GLORY.

DR. HENRY TELLS OF BANNER'S LAST BLOODY BAPTISM.

Special Patriotic Service Last Evening at First Baptist Church, Flag's Last Dip in Blood Did Much to Abolish Mason and Dixon's Line and Cement Citizenship.

Several organizations of Spanish War veterans and ladies' auxiliaries presented a special service at the First Baptist Church last night. The platform was draped with American flags and patriotic banners, and the singing by the choir and congregation. Rev. Dr. J. C. Henry's subject was "Old Glory's Last Baptism of Blood."

He said the flag stands for struggle and sacrifice, and is an emblem of liberty baptized in tears and blood. "It represents all that is embodied in the Pilgrim's compact, the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence, and the Constitution of the Confederacy."

"It represents every struggle attending the development of a great national life. It is the fairest national emblem in the world, and is a living symbol of purity. Its mission to the world is both human and divine."

"We believe Old Glory will continue to stand when despotic thrones are no more, when humanity is no more, when destiny it promotes patriotism by reminding us that we ought to be true to the traditions of our fathers."

"It has inspired our armies in the past, and all our men in the future with inspiration and courage, as they go forth to make war against oppression. Our flag received its first baptism of blood in 1776. In 1865, it was again dunked in the blood of the bloodiest and the greatest civil war ever waged in human history. Its last baptism was in connection with the Spanish-American strife."

"The world is created free and equal. That is the first principle of our nation. We must demonstrate their faith in that declaration. In more recent years our fathers fought and bled to free the negro from his bondage."

"In 1898 we contended for more, became the champion of the weak, and the war with Spain resulted in liberating Cuba and the Philippines from the domination and oppression of Spain."

"SPLENDIDLY PERFORMED."

"To our comrades to whom this monument was erected, and to you, who have given your services, the gratitude of this country is due. It should be the pleasure and privilege of every American to voice this sentiment on all occasions. It was not for you to question the wisdom of our country in its conduct of this war, or of our own or of attempting to assimilate those foreign peoples with our races. Yours was the simple duty of the soldier to obey implicitly and to the best of your ability. Your duty was to do that duty as splendidly performed."

"The results were indeed furnish ample proof. That your unquestioning obedience was justified is fully revealed by the fact that Cuba is now a free and independent republic, enjoying the friendly protection of the United States. An entomology is being inaugurated in the Philippines.

"That our government will carry out its pledge to the letter is not to be doubted. Carlisle, aged 17, plunged into a shallow pond on a vacant lot on Avenue 50, between Vista and New York streets, Sunday afternoon. He caught his soft, sticky hand under the glistening surface of the water. One of his companions, Otto Stewart, tried valiantly to save the drowning boy himself was pulled unconscious of the death trap.

FRANTIC RUSH FOR HELP.

Cyril Hollis, a young Mexican, ran for help nearly two miles to the nearest house, of which he could think and fell fainting without being able to state his errand. Other boys ran to the 5th St. Police Station and some to the house of Engine Company No. 12. Policemen and firemen responded on the run, but Carlisle was past all help. Ladders and ropes were fetched and Captain Alvarez and Lieutenant Davis of the engine company and a man named Simon went to the aid of the drowning boy. The man, M. H. Chamberlain could revive him.

FATAL PLUNGE.

Carlisle, with five other young men, went for an afternoon of fun, when he conceived the idea of bathing in the pond that had been created by dredging work being done at the vacant lot. Carlisle was the first to dip in, and, although he could not swim a stroke, plunged first into the water. It soon was evident to his companions that the boy had come to grief and Stewart, whose home is on Lincoln Street, between State and Main, and Main Street, bravely undertook to rescue the body of the peer of his own life.

It was only late in the day that Carlisle, who had been held by a pole into the end of which he had driven a spike, succeeded in reaching the body. The spike wound itself into the trunk the boy had put on for safety, and the corpse was dragged ashore.

The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Bresse Brothers, the boy was a student at the Yorke School.

The Blue Sermon, by CHARLES EDWARD,
preached at the First Methodist Church, Los Angeles,
has been printed in the
and the Gays, or Our Country. Is it Worth Fighting For? Is it Worth Dying
For?

"We look back," he said "to the stirring events of our Civil War through a perspective of over forty years.
Trees, twelve and fifteen inches in diameter,
can be seen today growing up through the debris of the battered during the bloody battles of the sixties. Time has softened the asperities and mellowed sectional animosities, and with every passing year, a nation's gratitude is deepened for those whose bravery and sacrifice
made our Union one and inseparable.
We are remembering this Memorial Day with a sense of quiet reverence for those who died and suffered to make men free. All honor to our fallen heroes!
Let us on tomorrow strew their graves
with garlands of loving remembrance.

The question of the Civil War was the interpretation of the Constitution;
under the porcelyn southern states it seemed one of the most rigorous northern attitudes. It seems now that the ex-Confederates would now have the results otherwise. And this is the universal opinion of patriots today.
Should the name of Robert E. Lee be placed in the Hall of Fame? If the right to be honored is based upon merit, then Lee is a hero. He used his talents to the best advantage, and his achievements, of intellect, and nobility, manifested themselves through himself. God manifested Himself in him.

"Another notable fact is that our Lord spent so much time in ministering to the bodies of men. He used His miraculous power to feed the multitudes, and to heal the sick.
Christian principles manifest themselves through
the bodies of men.

"It is this conception of the divine body which is the cardinal difference between the Christian and the heathen. The body contains an epitomized history of the creative acts of God. The entire past, with all its processes, lives in him. Christian devotion to the bodies of men, Christian outlook on the bodies of men, Christian principles manifest themselves through
the bodies of men.

Angeles County—Its Cities and Towns

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

ARE HILARIOUS 'MID THE CRAGS.

LICS MARK OPENING OF MT. WILSON RESORT.

Warmest Day of Year Seen Exodus Passes to the San Geronimo Lifts Her from His Foot—Memorial Services are Held.

of the Times, No. 2 E. Raymond Ave., PASADENA, May 31—Hilarity reigned among the campers of Mt. Wilson yesterday. Strain's Camp was open for the season and by nightfall its capacity for the accommodation of 250 guests was over-taxed to such a degree that people were sleeping beneath the pine trees on impervious mats.

It was the "warmest" day in more ways than one experienced on Mt. Wilson since last September. At the time the first campers of Angeles landed as rolling load at the foot of the old trail until the moon was high in the heavens the trails and byways were thronged with campers. There is no curfew law on Mt. Wilson and the shouts of little children mingled with the merriment at Strain's Camp until the hour of sunset. There is no Sunday in the mountains except for the gliding shade of fest was heard in the new camp hall. A new floor is to be put on this structure; a plan has been secured; and will be worked up the mountain down the big truck of the Carnegie Observatory.

TOWN TAKES SIESTA.

There was an exodus from Pasadena to the mountains and the sea, yesterday. After the impressive memorial services to the churches in the town seemed to take shelter the town was to the moon shortly after noon the then. It registered 92 at the pavilion, and golf links of the Hotelings, noon, was the hottest day of the season.

At 11 a. m. a band of 1500 spectators, including the women, marched up the hill to the big truck of the Carnegie Observatory.

AWFUL CRIME.

LONG BEACH, May 30.—The police are puzzled over a series of robberies on the Pike the past few days. Last night five concessions on the beach, including Byde-a-Wyle Theater, were entered and some acts of vandalism committed, but nothing of any value was taken. The most serious act was that the defendant hit her, slapped her face and "lifted her by the foot several times." Fischel denies that he was rough.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Ladies with flowers and carrying bags, many veterans of John F. Godfrey Post, G.A.R., prettily white-gowned members of the Woman's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans and their Silver Auxiliary and Ladies of the G.A.R. marched from Grand Army Hall yesterday morning to the Los Angeles Methodist Church. Rev. F. G. Stevens presided the memorial service.

In the afternoon, responding to an invitation from Dr. J. J. Burdette, members of allied organizations, in special cars to the Temple Auditorium in Los Angeles, to hear Mr. Burdette, who is a member of the local post of the G.A.R., and participate in the service.

Today will be observed as a legal holiday here, and all participating in the morning parade, either in the ranks as soldiers or are headed by them to bring flowers—armfuls, basquets and garlands, that the street may be strewed with them, as well as the graves. The Memorial Day Parade will form on East Colorado street, will rest on Broadway, and the column will start at exactly 9 o'clock. In the evening the local post, R. I. Knights of Pythias and auxiliary, members of the G.A.R. and Spanish War veterans and their auxiliary, will meet G.A.R. Hall promptly at 6:30 o'clock and march to the First Methodist Church to attend the memorial exercises of the evening. Col. Steadman of Hollywood will be the principal speaker of the evening.

AMATEUR VAUDEVILLE.

Enthusiasm marked the performance at the Valley Hunt Club Saturday evening, when the bands were crowded and the friends who gathered to witness the vaudeville entertainment given by amateur talent, which was from the curtain-raiser, which was a monogram on a negro dance, given by Mrs. Torrey Everett, prettily disguised under burnt cork, the original and clever take-off of moving-picture show, which turns were well received.

The most fetching skit was the song and dance given by a quintette of pretty girls in quaint Indian and wooden costumes. Miss Marjorie was soloist and charmingly sang several songs of the wooden shoes while the chorus was furnished by Miss Irene Groves, Nellie May, with Eddie Speer, and Eddie Speer.

The quintette gave several fascinating dances with the group of songs which were enthusiastically received.

Miss Margaret, Toronto, captivated the audience with an exhibition in skirt dancing, which was wonderful grace.

State Senator Bell, in gorgeous red and yellow costume, almost unrecognizable with his black make-up, furnished an amusing monologue, and concluded with a song.

Miss Anna Davis gave several songs, which were warmly received, and one of the most interesting numbers was the combination in fencing given by Prof. Upton and Mr. S. M. Moore.

Artists from Los Angeles gave a brief explanation of the etiquette and techniques of dueling.

Others did not participate. Others participating were Mimes, Everett, Walter Lutz, Mose, T. S. Tompkins, Mrs. Madison and Alden, Walter Lutz, Mrs. Lutz, and others.

The performance was an orchestra furnishing music.

Six-room flat of fine furniture, consisting of part of mahogany dressers, oak dressers, fumed quartered oak parlor extension table, fine chifforobe, box seat chairs, gas range, kitchen table, refrigerator, Axminster rugs and carpets of all kinds and sizes, lot of tools, lace curtains, portieres, dishes and cooking utensils and many other goods too numerous to mention. Sale positive. No reserve or limit. Parties leaving city.

Mother's Day Committee.
The Executive Committee that has charge of the Mother's Day season will meet at the Chamber of Com-

for the mother's fund will be about $2000 and the entire of the claims has been slow and difficult, and the exact figures are not yet known.

No License to Sell.

G. W. Taminich and John Reston
with proprietors of a restaurant at No.
225 North Spring street, were yesterday afternoon by Patrolmen Kierly, Brown and Gifford and locked up at the Central Station to await trial on the charge of selling liquor without a license.

Oil Refinery Fire.

Fire, started by oil dripping from the
cooling kettle in the storeroom of the Stabler Deansmore, Stabler Refining
Company, an oil refining concern at
No. 214 South Spring street, destroyed
the plant and building to the extent of about $1000 yesterday forenoon. The building, on which there was no insurance, was a one-story brick affair.

Special Services.

W. H. Bennett, a contractor, the man in charge of the building, was at the scene of the fire. The fire, started by oil dripping from the
cooling kettle in the storeroom of the Stabler Deansmore, Stabler Refining
Company, an oil refining concern at

EAGER FOR REPORT.

"What was the chemist found?" he asked, and showed his disappointment
when the answer was:

"The report has not yet been published."

The prisoner was especially vehement in denying that there had been any trouble between his wife and him.

"There never were two people who got along better together than did we did," he said. "This story of an 'affinity' in my case is a lie. Nobody knows anything about this double embalming that some of the papers have been talking about. Tipton, of our office, boarded us. That Saturday night, he said we were not getting along well, and my wife was not getting along well. We talked for a while as to what we should eat, and she suggested that I get some cold coffee. We both came from Texas and like those Mexican dishes. The children did not like them. I opened the cans of chili con carne and poured the contents into a frying pan my wife was holding, and she heated the stuff, with a little water and butter.

TOILLS OF POISONING.

"I was taken sick almost immediately after getting up from table, but my wife felt nothing. I went out to the drug store and when I got back home, I found my wife in bed with one of the little girls. Mrs. Bennett still did not know anything about this double
embalming that some of the pa-

Dripping of Soot on Range in South Broadway Restaurant Results in Fire Loss.

A property loss of $2000 was caused by fire and water at 9:45 o'clock last night, when soot dropping on the oil range of the kitchen of the Verka restaurant, No. 205 South Broadway, set fire to the fuel. The flames communicated to the upper part of the two-story brick building, the ground floor of which the restaurant is located. The fire spread from the air shaft at the rear of the restaurant, and when the department arrived at

to the U.S., attended church this morning and in the afternoon visited the Catholic mission.

Mr. Roosevelt has delayed his departure for Klabin, forty miles north of Nairobi, until June 3, because many of the skins of animals shot by his party have not yet been packed.
